The PEAK Conference on Inclusive Education is an annual development opportunity for all involved in the education and support of students with disabilities to come together to learn, collaborate, and focus on strategies that work.

Session at the conference targeted important and relevant issues to me.

The Conference content was of high quality.

The conference provided me with evidence-based information/practices for training and informing parents and students with disabilities at all grade levels within Colorado and

The conference helped me to engage more proactively and meaningfully in education and community processes on behalf of students with disabilities.

Session at the conference shared evidence-based practices.

The conference increased my knowledge about how students can be more effectively included in general education classrooms while also meeting their Individual Education Program goals.

The conference helped parents and students feel more confident and positive about participating on the IEP team and in all school processes.

The conference increased my knowledge about who and where to access more information, tools, skills and supports for supporting and including students with disabilities in schools and communities across Colorado.

“This and previous Peak Parent Conferences on Inclusive Education make me realize that there is always something new to learn. The most valuable takeaway is that I am not alone in my journey as both a mother and an advocate for my son who is on the Autism Spectrum.”
