

5 Ways YOU Can Get Involved with PEAK Parent Center

PEAK Parent Center believes that all children, including children with disabilities, can learn and participate in their neighborhood schools. Every day, PEAK teaches parents, students, educators, and professionals skills to successfully educate students with all types of disabilities and abilities. We do this because all children deserve the chance to become contributing members of their community, which begins at school.

1

Change Your Language

Disability labels focus on what the individual cannot do rather than the person's abilities. People First Language looks at the individual before the disability. A disability is something that an individual has, not what an individual is.

2

Spread the Word

Connect families who might need support to PEAK Parent Center. PEAK serves families of children with all kinds of unique needs, whether they are physical, learning, emotional, cognitive, sensory, etc. We offer support to families who have babies, school-aged children, and young adults, and we now serve youth with disabilities, as well.

3

Be Inclusive

From a play date, to school, general education classrooms, and the workplace, everyone can be included. We all have something to add. Inclusion of everyone in our society and honoring an individual's right to make their own choices is more than a disability issue - it is a civil rights issue. Speak up for equality, respect, and inclusion for all.

4

Change the World

All people, including people with disabilities, bring tremendous gifts and make amazing contributions to society and to every person who get to know them. Get to know a person with a disability in your life. Not sure where to start? Presume competence and maintain high expectations!

5

Give Financially

PEAK is on the front lines of helping families, children, and youth with disabilities to gain access to a fully inclusive life. Give to PEAK and help a family realize new possibilities for their future. Donate today at: www.peakparent.org/donate
